125th Event

Founders Day . . . A Tribute to All of Us

"I am so incredibly proud to be the Chancellor of this great University," said Chancellor Krevans to a packed house at our Founders Day luncheon last Friday. Friends, relatives and many happy colleagues were there to congratulate the 12 members of the campus community who have made extraordinary contributions during the year.

Six staff employees were recognized with the Chancellor's Award for Exceptional University Service for performing in their jobs at a level beyond what is normally expected. They were Charlene L. Bayles, staff research associate I, Department of Dermatology (13 years at UCSF); Marianne V. Gumbert, hospital lab technician III, Immunogenetics & Transplantation Laboratory (21 years at UCSF); Sara Mora, quick copy assistant I, Reprographics (7 years at UCSF); Norma O. Schuldt, administrative assistant III, Operation Room; Ed Thompson, building maintenance supervisor, Campus Housing (31 years at UCSF); Larry G. Watanabe, hospital lab technician III, Restorative Dentistry (14 years at UCSF).

Winners of the Chancellor's Award for Public Service (featured in the last issue of Newsbreak) were Christie Kiefer, associate professor, Human Development & Aging; Hilary Naylor, programmer analyst III, LPPI; and Kristin Oberg, third-year School of Pharmacy student.

Cathy Cebulski, Mary Reid and Peggy Seager were three Medical Center nurses taking top honors. (See page 8 for complete coverage of all nurses honored during Nurse Week.)

The evening before, at the Founders Day Banquet, five people, whose careers and professional accomplishments mirror the values and commitment to our campus, were awarded special 125th Anniversary Medals. Featured in the April 7-20 issue of Newsbreak, the winners were C. Everett Koop, Barbara McClintock, Lewis Thomas, J. Michael Bishop and Harold Varmus.

Also as part of our Founders Day activities, eight graduate students were honored on April 19 for their research. They were Mary Zaffke and Basia Tack, Family Health Care Nursing; Diana Wilkie, Physiological Nursing; Richard Krauzlis, Neurosciences; D. Bommi Bommannan, Bioengineering; Kenneth Faulkner, Radiology; Katrina Gabelko, Medical Sociology; Robert Martensen, History of Health Sciences.

And our Founders Day events continue. Top UCSF neurologist Stanley Prusiner will deliver the 33rd Faculty Research Lecture on Wednesday, May 9, at 2 p.m. in Cole Hall. He will discuss "Unraveling Prion Diseases through Molecular Biology & Transgenetics."

Goodjoin

Gomez, Goodjoin to Share Harris Award

For the third time in its 12-year history, the John B. Harris Award will be shared by two outstanding graduating students: School of Pharmacy's Denise Y. Gomez of Orange, CA, and School of Medicine's Richard D. Goodjoin of New York City. The award is given annually to the UCSF graduate who best exemplifies the qualities of Harris, a black faculty member, physician and civil rights advocate who died in 1973.

Following her certification as a pharmacy technician at Rancho Santiago College in Santa Ana in 1986, Gomez enrolled in our School of Pharmacy, and over the past four years has received the Duffy Scholarship, the Martin Luther King, Jr. Scholarship and the Outstanding Student Award from the School's Associated Students.

Raising a young son as a single mother has not stopped Gomez from being active in several community programs, including helping to develop a drug abuse prevention guide for the California Society of Hospital Pharmacists to increase their knowledge of drug abuse. She also coordinated student presentations for the San Francisco Unified School District's drug abuse education program, and has been active in encouraging potential minority applicants through a variety of programs sponsored by the Health Sciences Special Services Program.

A CPR instructor for the last four years, Gomez also gives AIDS education lectures to high school students, helps with hypertension screening progams and presents a variety of lectures to neighborhood senior centers.

Goodjoin earned his bachelor's degree in biological sciences cum laude from Harvard

Psychological, Social & Health Issues of "The Ring Cycle" at June 8-9 Symposium

Psychological, social, and health issues of Richard Wagner's cycle of four operas "Ring of the Nibelung" will be explored at a unique symposium presented by UCSF on Friday and Saturday, June 8 and 9, at the UCSF-Laurel Heights Conference Center.

The symposium is being held in conjunction with a complete performance of the Ring by the San Francisco Opera Company during June. Titled "The Threat to the Cosmic Order: Psychological, Social and Health Implications of The Ring," the event is the first conference to emphasize health and medical issues relating to the famous Wagnerian operas, according to UCSF psychiatrist Peter F. Ostwald, program chair and medical director of the UCSF Health Program for Performing Artists.

All audience members are invited to participate in discussion sessions and to attend a reception at the close of the event. Tuition is $125 for the main auditorium and $65 for adjacent conference rooms with television monitors.

"When a complete Ring cycle is presented, the event takes on international significance, with musicologists and historians

Yamamoto to National Academy of Sciences

Molecular biologist Keith R. Yamamoto, professor and vice chair of the Department of Biochemistry and Biophysics, has been elected to the prestigious National Academy of Sciences. He was one of 60 new members elected from across the US and 15 new foreign members. Election to the Academy is considered one of the highest honors that can be bestowed on an American scientist.

This year's election brings membership in the Academy to 1601, with an additional 272 foreign scientists. Eleven of those just elected were from UC, bringing the number of UC members to 252. Fourteen are from UCSF.

Yamamoto is known for his studies of how hormones turn genes on and off. These hormones and other regulatory molecules are important in determining the ultimate identity of a cell, and in directing what the cell does thereafter.

National Employee Fitness Day May 16

For the first time ever, our campus will celebrate National Employee Fitness Day on Wednesday, May 16. Called "Step On It!", UCSF's activities for the day will take place from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. There will be a fitness fair, a health talk and a campus walk, all in the spirit of keeping us healthy and fit.

Beginning at 11:30 a.m., you will have the opportunity to take part in a walk, which will visit various departments all over campus that are devoted to fitness-related services. These one-mile plus mini-hikes will leave every five minutes from the Medical Sciences lobby and will be led by employees in UCSF's walking club. If you would like to volunteer to be a walk leader, call Karen Britz at x62671.

The walks will end in Saunders Court, where all walking participants will be treated to a bag lunch, which promises to be high in taste, but low in cholesterol, salt and calories.

In Saunders Court you also will find a fitness fair with booths from all the different sporting and fitness clubs and leagues on campus. There will be tons of information, lots of games and prizes. The fair also will feature the Avia Aerobic Team giving 10-minute demonstrations of proper aerobic movements and training procedures. Music will be provided by a DJ from K101.

If you're not sure how to start your own exercise and fitness program, why not take in the free health talk at noon in the Millberry Conference Center. Popular media doc David Watts, UCSF associate clinical professor, medicine, will discuss "The First Steps Towards a Healthy Lifestyle." A free low cal brown bag lunch also will be provided to all people at the lecture.

The day's activities will be sponsored by Millberry Programs & Services, EMPACT! and Health Net.

Dental Public Health & Hygiene's 20th; Free Screenings for Mount Zion

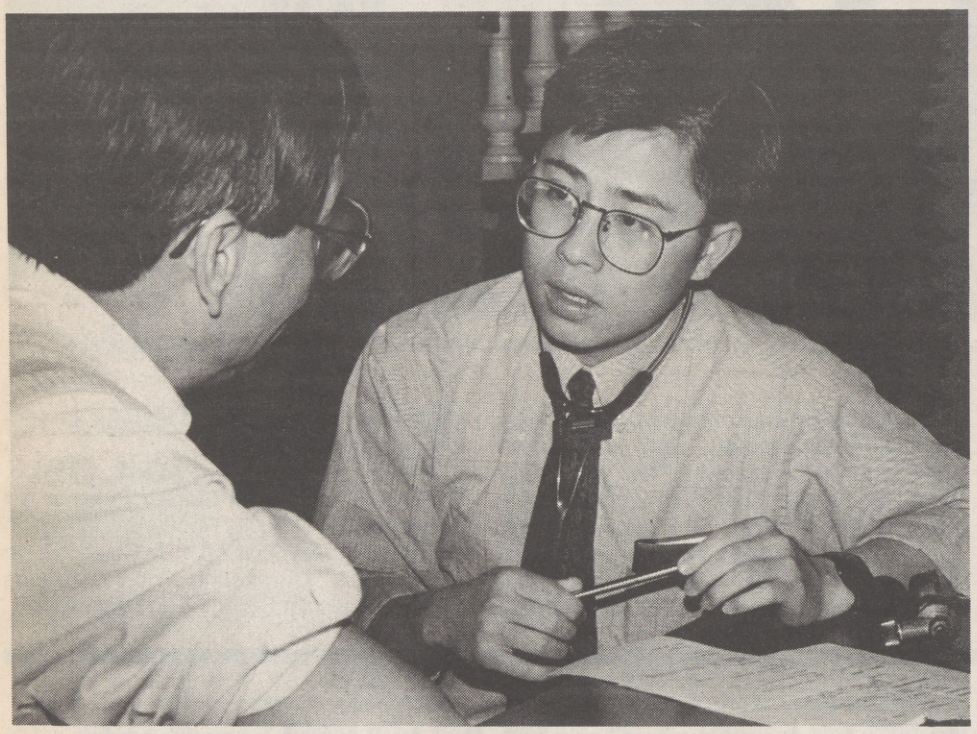
Dentists from across the country have been invited to attend a special one-day symposium on Saturday, May 19, to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the School of Dentistry's Department of Public Health & Hygiene. This continuing education program, held in C 701, will feature several key UCSF dental faculty, including Samuel Wycoff, chair of the department; Dean John Greene; oral biology specialist Ernest Newbrun; and dental AIDS researchers Bryan Maguire and Cara Miyasaki.

That evening there will be a reception in the Millberry Union Conference Center to further recognize the anniversary of the department, plus the anniversary of the dental clinics at SFGH and Buchanan Street. The clinics orginally were formed under the department 10 years ago. For further information call x61101.

The day before, on Friday, May 18, Mount Zion employees are invited to come to one of UCSF's community dental clinics to get a dental examination at no charge.

Throughout the year these community clinics will be offering dental examinations at no charge to specific Bay Area populations on particular days as part of a year-long celebration of their anniversary.

For an appointment at the SFGH Clinic, Building 20, call x65692; at the Buchanan Clinic, 100 Buchanan Street, x65608.



First Vietnamese Health Fair in Tenderloin

Third-year medical student Christopher Tran explains to Thai Ba why he has high blood pressure and the best way to bring it back to a safe level. Chris joined 20 of his fellow students from medicine, pharmacy and dentistry to be part of the UCSF Vietnamese Health Fair at the Golden Gate YMCA on April 21. The fair was sponsored by the UCSF Vietnamese Student Association.

Deaf Awareness Day is May 10

The campus will celebrate Deaf Awareness Day on Thursday, May 10, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in the Medical Sciences lobby. Sponsored by the UCSF Center on Deafness and the Audiology and Speech Clinic/Speech and Hearing Sciences, the celebration will provide an opportunity for the campus and community to learn about hearing impairment, the deaf experience, and about these two departments and their services.

There will be a hands-on demonstration of a TDD (telecommunication device for the deaf), videos on deafness and audiology, and models of hearing aids and other devices.

The Center on Deafness also is hosting a workshop for deaf parents and their kids on Saturday, June 2, at UCSF-Laurel Heights. Flyers will be available in the lobby.

Take Me Out to a Cubs Game

It's the bottom of the ninth, bases loaded. Score: Panthers 7, UCSF Cubs 4. The Cubs cleanup hitter is at the plate. He swings. Strike one. Then a ball. Another pitch. Strike two. He finally drives a slow curve over the fence for a grand slam homer. Cubs win 8 to 7. The crowd goes wild!

The above is fantasy . . . with a smattering of reality. There was a Little League baseball game the other night—the first of the season—pitting the Cubs against the Panthers. But, they lost the game. But . . . they really are called the UCSF Cubs.

Really? The UCSF Cubs? You mean we have a baseball team? Actually, we are sponsoring this Little League club. Previously known as the Sunset Wildcats of the San Francisco Youth Baseball League, the club is made up of 18 neighborhood boys, all 13 and 14 years old.

Coached by John Davis of 31st Avenue, the UCSF Cubs, coincidentally enough, are actually a regular UCSF family affair. Pilar Ruiz of Parking Operations is the assistant coach and his son, Sergio, plays third base. Field coach Peter Queseda is a third-year biomedical student here. Then there's field coach Nathan Rich, whose mother Linda is a third-year UCSF medical student, and left fielder Chris Reeder has an aunt—Louise Holland—who is a Medical Center nurse. And, Pilar's wife Bertha is a third-year UCSF doctoral student in geriatric nursing. Those are all the connections we could come up with. But, who knows, maybe there are more.

Why not take yourself out to a Cubs game? For a full schedule call Brenda Patterson at x68055.

discussing the meaning of Wagner's work. We believe the UCSF symposium will enhance the understanding and enjoyment of the opera-goer by providing understanding of universal themes about health, disease, and social and ethical issues," Ostwald said.

Wagner's subject matter for The Ring was drawn from poems of the Edda, a collection of ancient Norse songs dating from the 13th century and containing myths and legends about the Germanic Regions, as well as from a medieval epic poem called "The Nibelungenlied". The events in The Ring take place at the beginning of the world and portray the epic struggle between the forces of destruction and creation.

Experts in opera performance as well as faculty from UCSF and other institutions throughout the country will serve as program speakers, including art historian Alessandra Comini, Southern Methodist University, Dallas; leading Wagner biographer Robert Gutman, former graduate studies dean, State University of New York; Wagner historian David C. Large, Montana State; UC Berkeley musicologist Anthony Newcomb; George H. Pollack, past president, American Psychiatric Association and professor, Northwestern University Medical School; F.C. Redlich, former medical school dean and emeritus professor, psychiatry, Yale.

Through the Goethe Institute of San Francisco, an exhibit of photographs, costumes, books, and other items from the Bayreuth Festspiel Haus in Germany, where the entire cycle was first performed, will be on display at UCSF-Laurel Heights during the two-day symposium. The symposium is co-sponsored by the UCSF Department of Psychiatry and the UCSF Health Program for Performing Artists. For symposium registration information call x65808. For information on Ring cycle performances call the SF Opera Company at 864-3330.

Laurel Heights Final EIR Prepared

The Final Environmental Impact Report (EIR) for UCSF-Laurel Heights, which includes comments on the draft EIR and responses to those comments, is complete. Copies now may be obtained from the information desk at UCSF-Laurel Heights or by calling x62911. A copy also is on file on the second floor of the UCSF library.

Certification of the Laurel Heights Final EIR will be considered by the UC Regents at their meeting on Thursday, May 17.

The campus proposes to move the School of Pharmacy basic science units, supporting uses, instructional research and administrative programs from Parnassus to the new site.

in 1986. While at Harvard, Goodjoin spent his summers working as a hospital volunteer, an assistant lab technician and research assistant in the Immuno-Diagnostic Laboratory at the Montefiore Hospital and Medical Center in New York.

During his first year on this campus, he was awarded a special School of Medicine Scholarship recognizing his outstanding scholastic performance and promise as a young leader.

The summer of 1987 saw Goodjoin as a research assistant for the Multicultural Inquiry and Research on AIDS Project of Bayview-Hunter's Point Foundation where he compiled an annotated bibliography (later published as a monograph) and co-authored "Race/Gender Issues in the Sexual Transmission of AIDS," which was published in the AIDS Clinical Review.

Goodjoin has served as treasurer of the Student National Medical Association, vice president of Student Affairs ASUC, communications chair of the UCSF Black Students Health Alliance and a member of the School of Medicine's Minority Recruitment and Retention Committee.

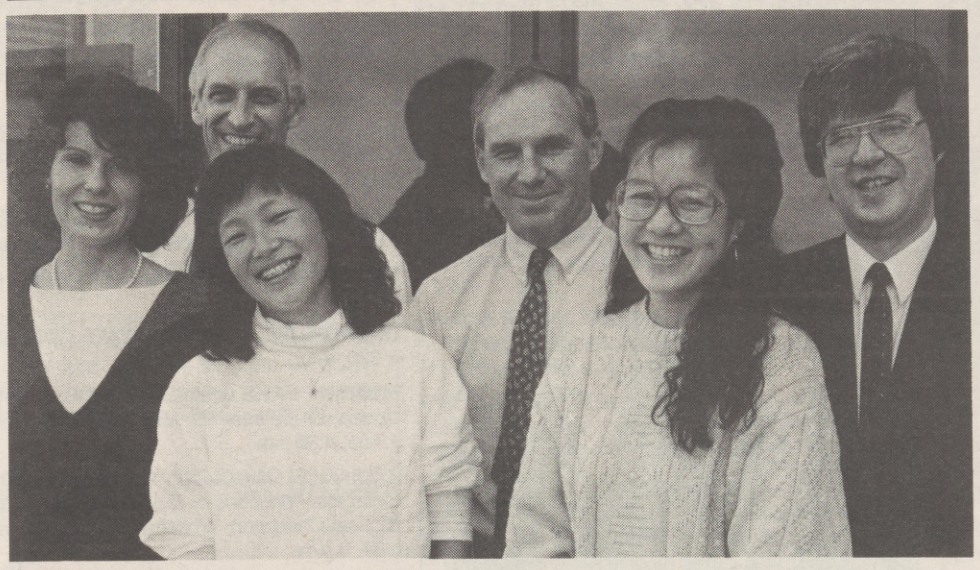
125 Years of Magic in Medicine

UCSF medical alumni from around the country have been invited to join the Alumni-Faculty Association and the Dean of the School of Medicine for a full day of celebrating "125 Years of Magic in Medicine" at Homecoming, Saturday, May 19.

The morning scientific program in Cole Hall will feature an historic overview of 125 years of medicine at UCSF, followed by an awards luncheon in Millberry Union where Dorothy Horstmann, '40, will be honored as the Alumna of the Year.

Graduating students to be honored at the luncheon include Daniel J. Lerner and Michael D. Scheiber, who will receive academic excellence awards. Eve J. Dunn will receive the Sadie Berkove Award, which is given to an outstanding woman graduate; and Roberto Azcarraga will be honored with the Robert H. Crede Award, a new honor recognizing a medical student "who best exemplifies the personal and professional characteristics of a primary care physician."

Nine five-year reunions will be held during the Homecoming weekend. Advance reservations are required for all events. For further information call the Alumni-Faculty Association office at x61471.



Pharmacy Faculty, Students Honored

William Reinhardt Remembered May 11

Friends and colleagues of the late William O. Reinhardt will gather together on Friday, May 11, at 3 p.m. in the Millberry Conference Center to remember his spirit and tremendous contributions to this campus.

Chancellor Krevans will accept a sculpture donated to UCSF by Mrs. Reinhardt in memory of her husband.

Reinhardt's association with this campus spanned nearly 60 years. As dean from 1963-66, he led the School of Medicine through a rapid increase in the number of students and major changes in the curriculum. He established two new divisions, which have since become the Departments of Laboratory Medicine and Family & Community Medicine.

A 1938 medical graduate, in 1956 he became chair of the Department of Anatomy and over the years established it as one of the most productive in research in the country. He retired in 1979, but continued teaching and research activities on campus as well as in Asia. Reinhardt was the 1989 recipient of the UCSF Medal, the most prestigious award given by this campus. He died October 1989.

Charles Carman Dies at Age 70

Charles T. Carman, a much-honored clinician and educator at UCSF and the VAMC for 28 years, died on April 18 at the age of 70.

Carman began his career at UCSF in 1951 after receiving the Gold-Headed Cane, the honor bestowed on the graduating medical student who best exemplifies the qualities most desirable of a true physician. He went on to serve his internship and two years of residency at UCSF and the VAMC.

After completing a National Institutes of Health-sponsored fellowship at New York's Bellevue Hospital, Carman returned to UCSF in 1955 as chief resident and instructor in medicine. He specialized in pulmonary medicine and served as chief of the chest service at Moffitt from 1959-67.

Carman was honored by his students four times for excellence in teaching. He served as acting dean of the School of Medicine in 1970 and from 1967-78 associate dean of the School. He was chief of staff of and associate dean for the VAMC from 1968-1978.

From 1974 to 1978, Carman served as liaison between UCSF and the California College of Podiatric Medicine, which bestowed on him an honorary degree for "oustanding contributions to the health and welfare of mankind." In 1979, he was appointed campus dean for University Relations. Carman also played a major role in the development of the UCSF-San Joaquin Valley medical program in Fresno. He retired in 1983.

The family prefers memorial donations to be made to the Gold Headed Cane Society, c/o Theodore R. Schrock, Department of Surgery, Box 0144, UCSF 94143.

Faculty Development Workshop May 21

Campus faculty are invited to attend a faculty development workshop on mentoring on Monday, May 21, from 2 to 4 p.m. in Toland Hall. Reservations should be made no later than Thursday, May 17. Call either x61881 or x62218.

Helping Supply the Will to Live

Manute Bol (center), center for the Golden State Warriors, and Haile Debas, UCSF chair & professor, surgery (right), were recognized by the city at a campus press conference on April 23 for their humanitarian efforts, specifically their work with Airlift for Africa. The Airlift collects food, clothing and medical supplies for areas of Africa stricken by civil war and famine. Barrels were set up all over campus during the weeks of April 16-28 to collect food and supplies for shipment on May 2. Presenting the plaques is San Francisco Deputy Mayor Claude Everhart.

$50,000 from Friends of LPPI for Library

The Friends of Langley Porter Psychiatric Institute have announced a pledge of $50,000 to the new UCSF library. It is the first gift for the new library from a UCSF-associated organization.

"We are all delighted to be a part of this important campuswide venture and to show the entire University community our support of this distinguished library facility," said Jeanne Robertson, president of the LPPI Friends board of directors. She noted that the current holdings of the LPPI library will be merged with those of the campus library when the new building opens this fall.

As a thank you, a reading area in the new library will be named in honor of the Friends.

Speaking of thank you's, UC President David Gardner took the opportunity of National Library Week, April 22 to 28, to pay special tribute to all UC library employees, praising them for supplying library services of the highest quality.

"No Sports" Garners More Awards

Still more major awards are being bestowed on the UCSF ad campaign, this time listed on the front page of the business section of the San Francisco Chronicle on April 20 with a huge picture of Charles Wilson.

The latest are golds in four TV categories in the fourth annual San Francisco Advertising Club and Art Director's Club Awards. The campaign, devised by Goodby, Berlin & Silverstein, is geared around UCSF's 125th Anniversary celebration. A few months ago, the ad campaign won an "Addy" as last year's best Northern California campaign geared for TV.

The UCSF ad campaign also helped garner for the agency the 1989 Advertising Age Agency of the Year award.

Dentistry At No Cost

If you are in good health, need your teeth cleaned, or even a gold cap, crown or silver filling, why not consider being a patient during UCSF's licensure examination. The exams will be held in the Parnassus clinics on Tuesday, June 26; Thursday, June 28; Saturday, July 14, and Sunday, July 15. To discover if you qualify, call x69600 now, leave your name and telephone number and someone will get back to you within 24 hours. Dental treatment will be provided at no charge by UCSF graduates from the dental and dental hygiene programs.

Thank You Johnson & Johnson

Scott Adzick (right) is the recent winner of $50,000 from Johnson & Johnson to help continue his research in fetal wound healing. On campus to present Adzick with the check was John Spaltro of Johnson & Johnson. Adzick is assistant professor, surgery.

Your Comments, Please

Two documents are available for employee review:

- Employee Relations has sent a final draft of the A&PS Policy Local Supplements to each department. The supplements are intended to assist users in clarifying the intent of the policy. All A&PS staff who wish to review and/or comment should obtain a copy from department management.
- Also available in departments is a copy of the University policy and interim procedure for Reporting Improper Governmental Activities and Protection Against Retaliation for Reporting Improper Activities. Employees wishing to review the policy should request a copy from department management.

If copies of either of the above are unavailable, call x62789.

Physician Impairment

The Faculty, Staff & Students Assistance Program (FSSAP) is co-sponsoring a workshop called "Physician Impairment: Confronting the Issues" on Wednesday, May 30, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Toland Hall. Contact Steve Heilig at the SF Medical Society, 567-6230, to register. CME credit available.

EMPACT!

Next Thursday is the Big EMPACT! Raffle

Next Thursday, May 10, (Chauncey Leake Day) is the date of the EMPACT! raffle drawing. Better buy your tickets now if you're planning to win the Macintosh computer—or the trip to Las Vegas, the TV, the CD player, the cordless phone, sailing lessons, cooking lessons, dinners for two, Disneyland and San Diego Zoo passes, gift certificates at clothing stores, a massage at Kabuki Hot Springs or one or more of over 100 great prizes.

Tickets are only $1 each. You can buy them at the MU Central Desk or any of the UCSF satellite locations (look for posters telling you where). The drawing will take place in Saunders Court at noon (you don't have to be present to win). Call x66932 if you have questions.

Exciting things on the agenda:

- Asian-Pacific Cultural Celebration Week, May 11 through 18. Lots of events at both Parnassus and UCSF-Mission Center. See inside calendar for complete list of events.
- National Employees Fitness Day, May 16. Fitness fair, health talks, health walks, games, prizes, free lunch. See page two for the whole story.

EMPACT!'s earthquake kits-in-a-backpack—as worn here by News Services' Nanette Grimm, Brian Shea and Jennifer Lee— sold like hotcakes during the recent Earthquake Preparedness Week. Good news: They're still available. Call x66932.

How to Get a Job

Qualified UCSF employees are urged to apply for open positions. Interviews are conducted on a drop-in basis during regular screening hours or by appointments. (For current screening hours or other job-related information, call x61645.)

The "Employee Opportunities" flyer lists current openings. The flyer is posted weekly in three locations: The main personnel office, the satellite office on the first floor at UCSF-Mission Center (now called "MCB" for "Mission Center Building") and west of the cafeteria in Moffitt Hospital.

The "Open Until Filled" list can be viewed at the main personnel office and the MCB satellite. Lists are updated Thursdays.

Personnel is located at 1350-7th Avenue. Business hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and until 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday.

The awards luncheon was highlighted by presentations by four volunteers—a lawyer, a doctoral student, a psychologist and a UC Berkeley retiree—who explained "what it means to be a volunteer at the Medical Center at UCSF." Their presentations will be covered in the next UCSF Magazine. Watch for it in early summer.

Measles Update

As of this writing, San Francisco had logged 28 measles cases (as compared to over 300 in Alameda County). Six of the SF cases have been UCSF employees.

Also as of this writing, 600 UCSF employees had received measles shots through Employee Health's free vaccine program.

If you were born in or after 1957, have not had the measles or been vaccinated twice since 1968, then you need the vaccine. Phone Employee Health at x61214 for more information.

Note from Infection Control's Marilyn Jordan: Flu-like symptoms with a high fever can be the first sign of measles. If you think you have been exposed, get checked, being as careful as possible not to expose others.

'Tis the Season to Celebrate Volunteers (There Are At Least 101 Ways)

In conjunction with the recent National Volunteer Week, Volunteer Services director Leona Hansen-Biddle and her staff distributed a flyer listing 101 ways to tell someone he or she is doing a good job.

Considering we have about 400 volunteers working in approximately 100 different services, your department very likely depends on the services of at least one and perhaps several volunteers.

And considering the only truly tangible pay our volunteers receive is your expressed gratitude, there's quite a lot of weight hanging on your word of thanks. Perhaps the "101 Ways" list would inspire and remind people of this. If you lost yours, call x61196 for another copy.

Another suggestion was to make an effort—on an ongoing basis—to bring your volunteers into the mainstream of your department: Get to know them, share news of your department, provide challenges and upward mobility.

Still another thing you might do is check the following list of volunteers who were honored at the Volunteer Awards Luncheon earlier in April. If you see a name you know, you could add your own congratulations to the honor.

There were 125 volunteers honored this year—representing 143,261 volunteer hours served. Awards are issued based on increments of hours donated, as well as some special awards for number of years served. Here are the honorees:

Special Awards
Emma Kahn, admissions, 25 years of service
Laura Gerstbacher, radiology, 20-plus years
Vera Kuntz, gift shop, 20-plus years
Lucy Filippini, foster grandparent, 20 years

Chancellor's Medal Award—10 years of service
Lillie Mae Bryant, foster grandparent
Angelica de los Santos, foster grandparent
Marion Kopas, emergency department

11,000 hour pin
Angelica de los Santos, foster grandparent

10,000 hours

All ages welcome: Jose Marino (left) and Hazel Petrig were among the honorees at the Volunteer Awards Luncheon. Jose, a native of El Salvador and now a student at Mission High, started in the physiology lab with a requirement to serve four hours a week through a youth program called "Learning Through Serving." Within three month's time he put in 238 hours! "It's better than staying home and watching TV," says the 11th grader, who has his sights set on a PhD in economics. Jose was honored for 300 hours and as the March 1990 Volunteer of the Month. Hazel, who is in her 80s, has faithfully put in eight hours a week for the past seven years—more than 1,500 hours—delivering meals and cheerful words to patients.

Random Shots

Kyra Janssen

Position: Manager of the Medical Center's Quality Assurance Program.
Years at UCSF: Almost 13.

● Function of the department: Provides a systematic way in which medical staff and clinical departments can evaluate patient care and identify ways to improve it. When Kyra first got the job she told her confused daughter (then in fourth grade), "If the hospital were an automobile factory, my job would be checking every tenth car as it comes off the assembly line to see if all the nuts and bolts are screwed in correctly." The catch is, Kyra and staff are checking service, not a product. They do this by helping set guidelines, checking records to see if guidelines are being followed, and then providing feedback. Although formal quality assurance programs in hospitals are rather new—they've evolved over the past couple of decades—virtually all hospitals have them in some form. The JCAHO (the hospital accrediting agency) requires it.

● Work-related goal: "I want people to see us as a helpful resource, not as the watchdogs for the Medical Center."

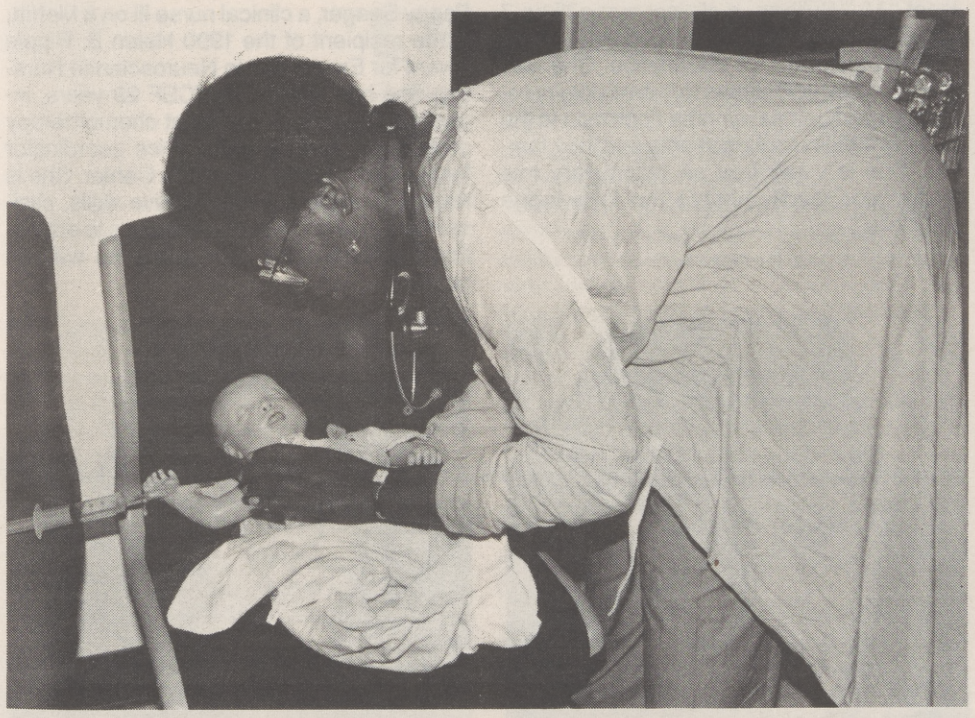
● Background: Born in Chicago; spent early childhood in Washington, DC, before the family moved to San Francisco. Father was director of planning for the City of SF from 1949 to 1958. It was during his tenure that the downtown freeway system was being developed. "My father wanted the Embarcadero Freeway to go underground in front of the ferry building. But the highway department wouldn't hear of it." The highway department got their way, obviously.

● How she became a quality assurance expert: "I went to college [UC Berkeley] at a time when a woman got a teaching credential so you'd have something to fall back on in case you ever lost your husband." Fourteen years into marriage, she and her husband divorced, but the teaching credential didn't help much. There was a surplus of teachers at the time. She went back to school (UC Berkeley again) and got her Master's in Public Health, with an emphasis on health planning and education. First job out of graduate school was Marin County coordinator for the national swine flu immunization program. The entire program crashed after a short time due to problems with the vaccine. Shortly after that she applied for a position here, but for a completely different job than the one she has now. The computers matched her up with quality assurance, however (then called "medical audit"). "My job," she explains, "is the result of computer matchmaking."

● Personal: Lives in Mill Valley, plays tennis regularly, gets a "Sierra fix" at Tuolumne Meadows every summer, has two white-mittened cats that mimic each other, "Marcel" and "Marceau"; has taken two very interesting trips lately; and has two very interesting daughters.

● Two recent interesting trips: In 1986 she went to Kenya and last year she went to Moscow, Leningrad and three cities in Central Asia, both times through an organization that arranges trips for groups of professionals with like interests. Thus, they toured health care facilities in these countries, including a "trauma center" housed in a tent-like structure in the middle of Masai country—where a trauma victim might be someone gored by a water buffalo. They also heard speakers on health policy, ethics, quality assurance and other topics of interest in the countries they visited. The timing of her Soviet trip was very good, she says. "It certainly gave extra meaning to the events of the following months."

● Two interesting daughters: Daughter Katie is 27, rows crew in the Larkspur slough several mornings a week, and currently is doing student teaching at Tamalpais High, her alma mater. Prior to this she was a journalist. After three years as editor of the Smithsonian's Air and Space Magazine, she took off to teach for a year in a village in Kenya. She discovered teaching was her calling. Younger daughter Kristen, who is just finishing up at UC Berkeley with a degree in Conservation and Resource Studies, served as this year's co-chair for UCB's Earth Week Committee.



Rubber Baby Injured in Earthquake

Medical student Vaneida White tenderly takes an injured infant—albeit a rubber one—into the holding area in a scene from the April 19 disaster drill. The drill took place during the campus-wide "Earthquake Preparedness Week" sponsored by the Medical Center—and fittingly, the staged disaster centered around a large earthquake in the Bay Area. The drill featured a new component this time: a pre-drill educational session for Medical Center personnel on what to do during a disaster.

Organ Organization Honors Med Center

Nursing Director Helen Ripple (center) looks exceedingly pleased, yes? She's accepting an award on behalf of the Medical Center from the California Transplant Donor Network. The occasion was National Organ and Tissue Donor Awareness Week, and the award was because of the Medical Center's "notable contributions" to the Network's success in forging the link between patients waiting for transplants and suitable donated organs. The Network is an organ procurement agency established almost three years ago as a means of equalizing the transplant organ opportunity for all patients and to encourage donation of organs. It serves five transplant centers, including UCSF. With Helen are (left to right) Lisa Tulman from the Transplant Network, Gilda Alas from our Heart Transplant Service and Janine Sabatte-Castillo from our Kidney Transplant Service.

Mother's Day Gifts

The Auxiliary will sponsor a Mother's Day sale on Thursday and Friday, May 10 and 11, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day in the Medical Sciences lobby.

Top Hat Produce will feature brass planters filled to order, boxed chocolates, and gift baskets stuffed with your choice of many delicious things that mothers love to eat.

Season of Celebration

April and May contain a number of celebrations and observances in hospital territory, not the least of which is National Hospital Week, May 7 through 11. There's also Nurses Week (which goes through Sunday, May 6), National Volunteer Week, Children and Hospitals Week, Organ Donation Week and Earthquake Preparedness Week. In fact, practically this entire issue of Medsounds is taken up by these themes.

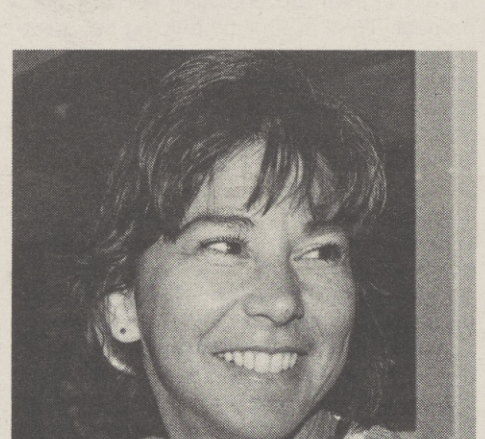
Maternal/Child
6 Long Medicine: Laurie Hornberger
6 Long Surgery: Kelli O'Regan
PCRC: Anne Senner
PICU: Mariclair Brookmeyer
ICN: Liz Rohnstock

Mary Reid

Mary Reid, a clinical nurse II in the ICU, is the recipient of the Distinguished Nurse Award for 1990. She was selected for her "inspirational and tireless leadership" in successfully planning, implementing and evaluating a weekly support group for friends and families of patients in the adult intensive care unit. Among its benefits, the group—which is facilitated by nursing staff—has led to more effective communication between families and staff.

Cathy Cebulski

Cathy Cebulski, head nurse on 11 Long, is the 1990 recipient of the Jeanne M. Yalon Award for Excellence in Oncology Nursing. She is being honored for her "dedication to improving the quality of patient care, her work to improve the educational level of nurses and her effort to increase collegial spirit through the formation of a Joint Collaborative Practice Committee."



Janet L. Sullivan

Janet "J.L." Sullivan, a clinical nurse III on 7 Long, is the first recipient of the Cardiovascular Nursing Award for Excellence. She was nominated by colleagues for her visible commitment and compassionate approach to the care of cardiovascular patients and their families. She is viewed as an "exemplary role model who readily shares her knowledge and skills."

Peggy Seager

Peggy Seager, a clinical nurse III on 8 Moffitt, is the recipient of the 1990 Helen B. Ripple Award for Excellence in Neuroscience Nursing. She has worked at UCSF 29 years, including 14 years as assistant chemotherapy coordinator and clinical service coordinator for the Brain Tumor Research Center. She is known for superb administrative skills, clinical expertise and her contributions to educational activities for new grads as well as peers.

Connie Glavis

Connie Glavis, clinical nurse specialist for adult critical care, is the first recipient of the Clifford K. and Avola Wilson Award for Excellence in Critical Care. Respected by peers, physicians and patients as an expert clinician, Connie also is known for her attention to the "caring" aspect of patient care—to see that it gets equal billing to the high tech aspects of critical care nursing.

Bev Baacke

Bev Baacke, a clinical nurse III in the Pediatric Intensive Care Unit, is the first winner of the Maternal/Child Health Award for Excellence in Pediatric Nursing. Bev is recognized for outstanding clinical and teaching skills, most notably in the area of bone marrow transplantation. Her family-centered approach to care makes her a role model among her peers. Her participation on the Emergency Transplant Team has brought positive feedback from referral hospitals.

Laurie Friedman

Laurie Friedman, a clinical nurse III in the Intensive/Special Care Nursery, tied with Linda Coughenour as the first winner of the Maternal/Child Health Award for Excellence in Perinatal Nursing. Laurie is recognized for her excellent neonatal nursing skills and the rapport she is able to establish with infants' parents. She played an important role in the development of a parent booklet on the care of sick newborns.

Linda Coughenour

Linda Coughenour, a clinical nurse II in Perinatal Services (obstetrics, labor & delivery, well-baby nursery), tied for the first Maternal/Child Health Award for Excellence in Perinatal Nursing. An excellent clinician and devoted teacher for new staff, Linda played a crucial role in the planning and organizing for the new 15 Long unit. Linda also is an active transport nurse.
